2026 PART B – Deductible

The Medicare B deductible for 2026 is $283.

Types of income that trigger the IRMAA

For 2026, the surcharge is based on your MAGI in 2024. For purposes of calculating the surcharge, MAGI consists of your adjusted gross income plus:

- Tax-exempt interest that has been earned or accrued. For instance, municipal bonds can be significant for many retirees.
- Interest from US savings bonds used for qualifying education expenses.
- Income earned abroad that was excluded from gross income.
- Nontaxable income from U.S. territories, including Puerto Rico, Guam, American Samoa, and the Northern Mariana Islands.

A well-timed Roth IRA conversion can help you avoid the IRMAA as distributions from Roth accounts do not count toward your MAGI.

The good news is that you can appeal and request a redetermination, especially if you've had a life-changing event, such as the death of a spouse, retirement, or loss of pension income.

How to pay your Part B and Part D IRMAA

IRMAA surcharges for Part B and Part D are paid separately. Part B IRMAA is automatically added to your monthly premium bill.

All Medicare bills are due on the 25th of the month. In most cases, your premium is due the same month that you get the bill.

Here are three ways you can pay your Part B premium:

- RECOMMENDED - Sign up for Medicare Easy Pay. With this free service, Medicare automatically deducts your premium payments from your savings or checking account each month. It can take up to 6-8 weeks for your automatic deductions to start. You must pay your premiums another way until your automatic deductions start.
- Online through your Medicare Account. Use this free service to pay by credit card, debit card, or from your checking or savings account. Do not create or use a Pay.gov account to make your Medicare payment. Use your Medicare account to pay your bill.
- NOT RECOMMENDED – We do not recommend that you mail your payment to Medicare. It is recommended that you set it up on a monthly bank draft.
